

Developing the reading and writing of more advanced EAL learners at KS2 – the creative application of ICT using 3D immersive adventure games and iMovie

A half-day workshop

Friday 23rd June 2017

9 – 12 or 1 – 4pm

Fred Perry House, Edward Street, Stockport SK1 3XE

Target audience: KS2 teachers, English subject leaders, teaching assistants.

Course presenter: Chris Pim

This half-day workshop will take delegates through a British Council EAL Nexus research project looking at how to use immersive adventure games to improve speaking/listening, reading and writing for more advanced EAL learners.

Through practical activities, delegates will have the opportunity to try out the ICTs as well as experience the literacy-based activities used in the scheme of work to promote academic talk and raise standards in writing.

Delegates will be provided with a DVD containing all the project materials and source files.

Chris is an ICT and EAL consultant. He has worked as an EAL specialist teacher as well as a consultant, delivering training across the country on EAL and ICT. He is also the author of a number of books, such as 100 Ideas for Supporting Learners with EAL.
